

book manages to give a comprehensive overview of the complex issues linked to GMO regulation at EU and international level: the role of science and its limits in the assessment of GMOs, the main corpus of law on GMOs both at EU and national level, and the international dimension to GMO regulation.

Laura Pignataro
Brussels

Book notices

Thomas Beukers, Herman van Harten, Sacha Prechal, (Eds.), Het Recht van de Europese Unie in 50 klassieke arresten. The Hague: Boom uitgevers, 2010. 325 pages.

This book analyses fifty “classic” cases of the ECJ. The analyses are written by all the well-known, and lesser-known, Dutch EU law specialists. The book was edited by members of the Europa Institute of the University of Utrecht, and presented on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Dutch Association of European Law (NVER). Anyone who reads Dutch and wants to take a new look at old, and not-so-old, cases is encouraged to dip into this fine collection.

Jean Paul Jacqué, Droit institutionnel de l’Union européenne, 6th ed. Paris: Dalloz, 2010. 757 pages. EUR 29.

Fergus Randolph QC and Jonathan Davey, The European Law of Commercial Agency. 3rd ed. Oxford: Hart Publishing, 2010. 298 pages. ISBN: 9781841138503. GBP 95

Juliet Lodge, The 2009 Elections to the European Parliament. Hampshire: Palgrave MacMillan, 2010. 352 pages. ISBN: 9780230230408. GBP 65.

Karen Davies, Understanding European Law. London: Routledge, 2010. 216 pages. ISBN: 978-0-415-58234-6. GBP 19.99

S. Verschuur, Overheidsmaatregelen en het toezicht van nationale mededingingsautoriteiten. The Hague: Boom Juridische uitgevens, 2010. 245 pages. ISBN: 978-90-8974-288-9. EUR 49.

Journals

European Journal of Risk Regulation. Berlin: Lexxion. Four issues per year.

The journal’s scope is the regulation of risk to individuals’ health and safety. The focus is on law and policy, but other social sciences are included.