

Call for Papers: Comparing Risk Regulation in China and Europe

The business worlds of China and Europe have come closer. As awareness about the interdependence of both economies arises, the need for a dialogue between both economies becomes evident. In this respect, the field of risk regulation is on the forefront of such a dialogue. Recent and old crises such as the dioxin scandal in Europe and hazardous toys in China as well as the transnationality of the financial crisis emphasize the intertwined character of risk perception and regulation in both economies, which still lacks adequate research. Local problems and regulatory challenges in China and Europe may furthermore be of interest for a mutual understanding of both regimes. Environmental challenges with emissions, drawing and enforcement of safety standards represent challenges to both economies.

The EU-China risk regulation special issue invites submissions that investigate specific Chinese and European topics within the areas covered by the EJRR from a comparative perspective. Additionally, we are looking for contributions from international scholars and practitioners which evaluate fields covered by the EJRR and especially case notes from the respective jurisdictions.

The EJRR is an international journal that provides an innovative forum for informed and scholarly discussion on how risks are regulated across policy domains. By focusing on institutional, procedural and substantive aspects of risk regulation, the EJRR strikes a balance between the interests of the practitioners, notably those increasingly engaged in regulatory drafting and advice to the industry, and a more theoretical focus, combining normative articles with timely contributions on legislative and judicial developments, new literature and relevant events. The EJRR understands itself as a truly multi-disciplinary journal.
